Italien - Die Wunden von Genua

43 people died when the four lane Morandi motorway bridge in Genoa collapsed last August. More than 650 people, who were living in the area under the bridge, lost their homes. The tragedy in Genoa shook all of Italy and the effects are still widely felt. Patrick A. Hafner of WELTjournal met residents of the area under the bridge, who, accompanied by the fire brigade, were allowed back to retrieve their most important belongings from the wreckage of their homes.
