

SYNOPSIS

A Glimpse of the Other Side - Near Death Experiences

Blick ins Jenseits - Nahtoderlebnisse

Since the 1970s, near death experiences have become the subject of public curiosity. And since that time, more and more people have put aside their fear of speaking out about their experiences. In the documentary «A Glimpse of the Other Side», three women talk about what happened to them on the threshold of death. All three recall their experiences having progressed in a similar manner: they all report seeing themselves lying dead and observing what was happening in the room from outside their bodies. They describe approaching a light in a tunnel and having been welcomed by their dead relatives. This phenomenon is now also being examined from a scientific perspective. What happens after death? And what part of a person continues after death? Above all, these questions relate to faith and religion. So the fact that there might actually be points of contact with quantum physics may at first glance seem absurd.
