Oh Baby, a Baby!

Ach Baby, ein Baby!

This merry romance is about a lesbian couple, whose relationship is currently showing the signs of fatigue. So they decide that a baby could liven things up again. Complications ensue when the «semen donor» they have their eye on turns out to be an attractive young man who stirs up all sorts of trouble in the relationship. He is Antonio Lopez, a good looking half-Spaniard, a picture of a man. Iris talks him into agreeing to the artificial insemination. What Iris does not know, however, is that Antonio is an architect and also Sandra's new colleague at work. He has long since fallen in love with Iris's attractive partner and is courting her intensively. It ends the only way it can: Sandra has herself inseminated artificially, the flirt with Antonio results in unexpected passion and a hard test for the relationship between the two women.
