

SYNOPSIS

Home for Sale

Heimat zu verkaufen

Max Höllerer, the owner of the Alpine hotel Edelweiss, finds himself in hot water. An international tourism company has taken over the insolvent hotel and plans to turn the idyllic family establishment into a modern health spa. Everything appears to be going perfectly, the pre-contracts have been signed and staff member Sarah Sand has been asked by her boss to convince Max to stay on as manager of the new hotel. He continually refuses and tries everything possible to keep the family establishment in its original condition, much to the displeasure of the local mayor, farmers and business people, who think the project will be a money spinner. As Max and Sarah get to know each other better and Max learns that his best friend is caught up in the whole business, the mood in the village begins to change - one or more snags have obviously been overlooked. Sarah also begins to have her concerns. The investors, meanwhile, have brought forward their plans to have the property surveyed in order to seal the deal. Can Max and Sarah turn the tables?
