

SYNOPSIS

Third Age Moving

Alt werden in Europa

Never before in human history has it been possible to reach such a ripe old age as it is today. A historically recent development of modern society, it is therefore no wonder that the general public has not yet properly adjusted to it. Institutions for education and further education in the «golden years» have hardly been established. Thoroughly researched personal portraits and model projects from all over Europe highlight new ways and create an appetite for finding the latent treasures of age pointing to alternative as well as visionary paths to the society of the future.
