

SYNOPSIS

The World in a Drop of Water

Die Welt im Tropfen

It has been proved scientifically that water and man influence each other even without coming into contact. The miraculous world in a drop, water as an accompaniment and originator of all life. It surrounds everything and can assume the most bizarre shapes in its frozen state. Inspiring artists from our early days, it has served as man's elixir, as the right medium for day-to-day or magical ritual washing, or for baptising believers. The world in a drop actually shows why our heartbeat is irregular, how a faucet leaks, and how the world of art can point out completely new paths to the world of research.
