

SYNOPSIS

Fu Long - Little Panda, Happy Dragon

Fu Long - Der kleine Panda

Entire Austria was buzzing with excitement as for the first time ever in the history of European zoos a panda baby was conceived naturally and born in good health. In advance to this moment of happiness, a Chinese delegation called the little bear Fu Long - «Happy Dragon». ORF's Natural History Unit accompanied the panda baby throughout the first moments of its young life. Witness Fu Long's clumsy attempts at walking, playing around in the adjoining garden and canoodling with his mother Yang Yang. This documentary offers not only sensational exclusive shots of the newly born baby in its birth box, being taken care of by its mother and the little panda's visits to the veterinarian to assure healthy development but also tries to uncover the secret life of one of the most endangered species in the world. Fu Long is growing fast and getting cuter and lovelier every day. Have a look and join the «panda-mania» that crossed Austria's borders spreading into whole Europe in no time.

Year: 2008

Run-Time: 1 x 47 min.

Directed by Heinz Leger

Interspot Film Production for ORF in association with Tiergarten Schönbrunn

Available worldwide

Languages: German (ORIGINAL) , English (DUBBED)

Format: 16:9 , 16:9

» SCREEN ONLINE